A Sherlock Holmes Story. By Conan Doyle.

A CASE OF IDENTITY. .

"Who was he, then, and what was his ebject in deserting Miss Sutherland?" The question was hardly out of my mouth, and Holmes had not yet opened his lips to reply, when we heard a heavy footfall in the passage and a tap at the

Coney Island Performer Ages Ter Years After a Narrow Escape. Melvin Howard, who, together with Lucileta, performs on a high wire 225 feet above the ground at Dreamland, Coney Island, slipped yesterday while performing, and in the presence of 10,000 persons almost fell. In one minute he ecame ten years older. The surging crowd was watching this daring act when a sudden gust of wind coming up from the ocean blew the trapeze around. One of the acrobat's ands missed the bar and he lost his

"I am surprised that I did not die of fright," said Howard. "I was turning me. A brief resume of my mast life was presented to me then, and I felt that I hould have been a more religious man.

Dr. Brush's Kumyss,

The Ideal Summer Beverage. Put up in pint bottles only. If a druggist effers you a split, it is not Dr. Brush's Kumyss, but an imitation. See you get the Kunyss is a milk food—effervescing, de-iciously tart, and satisfies thirst as nothing liciously tart, and satisfies third as nothing else.

When suffering from heartburn, dyspepsia or billousness try Kumyes. It is a natural tonic, supplying the nourishing elements of milk in a condition which renders them readily digestible by the weakest stomach. Furnishing the best nutriment in light and concentrated form, it is popular with many persons as a det for luncheon or under slight temporary disarrangement of the digestive organs. SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Mary Sutherland, who lives with her mother and steptather, and allows them to the activation of the control of th caught him!"

"What! where?" shouted Mr. Windibank, turning white to his inps and giancing about him like a rat in a trap.

"Oh, it won't do—really it won't." said Holmes, suavely. "There is ne possible getting out of it, Mr. Windibank. It is quite too transparent, and it was a very bad compliment when you said that it was impossible for me to solve so simple a ugestion. That's right! Sit down, and let us talk ft over."

James Windibank," said Holmes. "He has written to me to say that he would be here at 6. Come in!"

The man who entered was a sturdy, middle-sized fellow, some thirty years of age, clean shaven and sallow skinned, with a bland, insinuating manner and a pair of wonderfully sharp and penetrating gray eyes. He shot a questioning glance at each of us, placed his shiny top hat upon the sideboard and, with a slight bow, sidled down into the nearest chaft.

"Good evening, Mr. James Windibank," said Holmes. "I think that this typewritten letter is from you, in which you made an appointment with me for 6 o'clock?"

The man sat huddled up in his chair, with his head sunk upon his breast, like one who is utterly crushed.

Holmes stuck his feet up on the corner of the mantelplece and, leaning back with his hands in his pockets.
